What are adequate records according IRS Publication 463 Travel, Entertainment, Gift and Car Expenses?

You should keep the proof you need in an account book, diary, log, statement of expense, trip sheets, or similar record. You should also keep documentary evidence that, together with your record, will support each element of an expense. You generally must have documentary evidence, such as receipts, cancelled checks, or bills to support your expenses. Documentary evidence is not needed if your travel expense other than lodging is less than $75 or you have a transportation expense for which a receipt is not readily available. Documentary evidence ordinarily will be considered adequate if it shows the amount, date, place, and essential character of the expense. You must generally provide a written statement of the business purpose of an expense. However, the degree of proof varies according to the circumstances in each case. If the business purpose of an expense is clear from the surrounding circumstances, then you do not need to give a written explanation. If you do not have complete records to prove an element of an expense, then you must prove the element with your own written or oral statements containing specific information about the element, and other supporting evidence that is sufficient to establish the element. If the element is the description of a gift, or the cost, time, place, or date of and expense, the supporting evidence must be either direct evidence or documentary evidence. Direct evidence can be written statements, or oral testimony of your guests or other witness setting forth detailed information about the element. Documentary evidence can be receipts, paid bills, or similar evidence. If the element is either the business relationship of your guests or the business purpose of the amount spent, the supporting evidence can be circumstantial rather than direct. For example, the nature of your work, such as making deliveries, provides circumstantial evidence of the use of your car for business purposes. Invoices of deliveries establish when you used the car for business. If you cannot produce a receipt because of reasons beyond your control, you can prove a deduction by reconstructing your records or expenses. Reasons beyond your control include fire, flood, and other casualties.
